Hello:

I'm a production editor with over 10 years of experience in video content, graphic design, production management and illustration to numerous high-profile individuals and organizations utilizing Avid Media Composer, Premiere, Photoshop and After Effects. Here's why I would be an excellent fit for your organization.

As a video editor with NBC, I'm depended upon to deliver daily video content that is original and creative in a deadline-driven environment, working primarily with the company's signature shows including Morning Joe, The Rachel Maddow Show and The Last Word. Throughout my time at the network, my ability to produce content that understands the audience and maximizes engagement while remaining editorially accurate.

Producing content for both digital and linear outlets has given me the ability to understand how to adapt to the ever-changing media landscape and create visuals that strengthen the viewer's experience. Working in a consulting role for both larger and smaller media companies, I've developed a strong grasp of how to use visual storytelling in other departments such as marketing, promotions and sales.

With an extensive background and relevant skills as a video editor, graphic artist, and producer with passion for games and the worlds they build would make me a valuable member of the team. This coupled with my dedication to a project and the people involved have been the foundation of my work ethic.

Looking forward to discussing this with you further.

Sincerely,

Christopher M. Liatsis
